

Ojai Raptor Center is dedicated to the care and protection of wildlife through

- The rehabilitation and release of sick, injured, and orphaned wildlife,
- Scientific discoveries that aid conservation efforts, and
- Educating and inspiring the community to become stewards of our environment.

Not only did she fall out of her nest, but she was also attacked by crows.

By the time the nestling Great Horned Owl arrived at Ojai Raptor Center, she had been through a lot. As a result, she had a deep wound on her beak that had become infected and had eaten away some of the bone. Were it not for your support, we would not have been able to get her on the road to recovery.

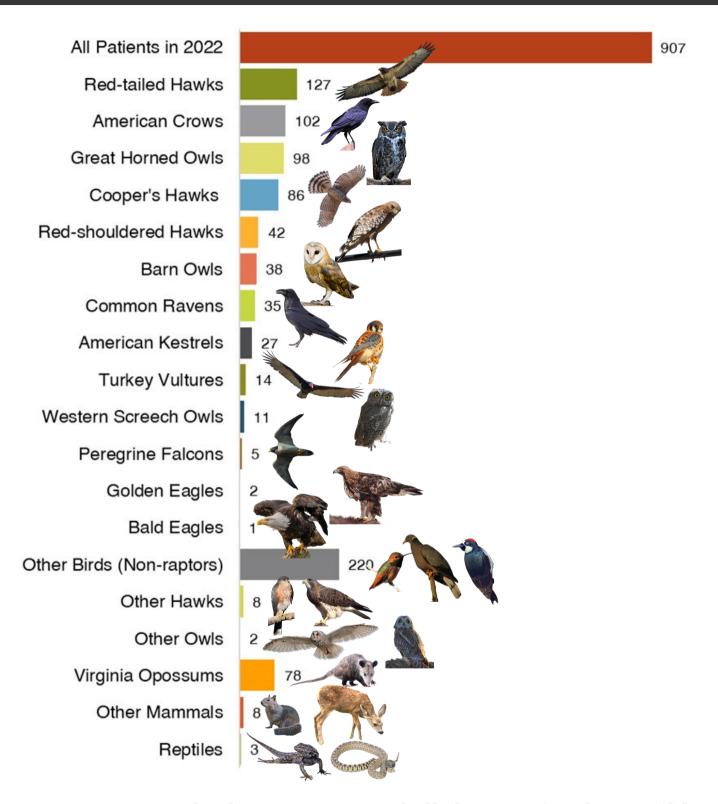

ORC veterinarian Dr. Stephany Lewis prescribed pain relievers and antibiotics, and once all infection was gone, covered the wound with a skin flap.

The owlet healed quickly and was soon learning to fly and hunt in a large aviary with other young Great Horned Owls in care. At six months of age, she was able to be released to live out her life in the wild.

REHABILITATION

Your support made the treatment of all these animals possible!

For a complete breakdown of patients by species and a list of where patients were rescued, see Appendix A

Patients need to come to Ojai Raptor Center for a variety of reasons, most of them directly or indirectly human caused.

In 2022, birds faced a new threat - Highly Pathogenic Avian Influenza (HPAI). The first case of this deadly disease was reported in wild bird populations in January 2022 in South Carolina. It had reached California by July, and we saw our first case in October.

SCIENTIFIC DISCOVERY

Your support made it possible for Ojai Raptor Center to participate in six scientific studies in 2022 both on-site and off-site in conjunction with other organizations to help improve the overall understanding of raptors and the issues they face in the world. No birds were harmed in any of these studies.

In-house Studies

Diazepam in Red-tailed Hawks, in partnership with Western University

Objective: Evaluate the efficacy of oral diazepam as an anti-anxiety medication and sedative in Red-tailed Hawks.

Results: Birds move their heads less, shift their feet less, "clack" their beaks less, stand on one leg more, and sleep significantly more.

Activated Clotting Time of Normal Red-tailed Hawks and Great Horned Owls, in partnership with Western University

Objective: Obtain reference ranges for normal Activated Clotting Time (ACT) using an in-house blood clotting test, for healthy Red-tailed Hawks and Great Horned Owls.

Results: We now know what normal blood clotting time is for Red-tailed Hawks and Great Horned Owls, which we can compare to that of patients to help determine if they might have been exposed to rodenticide which slows clotting time.

Outside Studies

Lead in Raptors Study - Lindsay Wildlife Experience

ORC shared blood levels of patients who showed indications of lead exposure.

Leukocytozoan Study - Rhodes College

ORC shared blood samples to be tested for the parasite.

Wildlife Mortality Survey - California Department of Fish and Wildlife ORC shared deceased specimens to examine for diseases, toxins, or other unusual circumstances.

West Nile Virus Survey - California Department of Public Health ORC submitted patients' mouth swabs to be tested for West Nile Virus.

In 2022, Ojai Raptor Center began offering our education programs in Spanish to schools in our community that have an overwhelming demographic of Spanish-speaking ESL students. These programs, developed with the U.S Fish and Wildlife Service (FWS) and the coordinators of their Connecting People With Nature (CPWN) program, create more diversity, equity, and inclusion within the organization as well as the industries of wildlife and environmental education by developing a position that provides representation for Latinx communities.

In Memoriam

Lucy the Screech Owl

In 2022 we said goodbye to Lucy, our Western Screech Owl ambassador of 18 years, who sadly succumbed to heart disease.

Lucy arrived at Ojai Raptor Center as a fledgling after a predatory attack left her blind in her left eye, and with vision too weak in her right to survive in the wild. Lucy was one of our most frequently presented ambassadors who delighted thousands of children and members of the public throughout her life, inspiring many to support raptor conservation.

Aside from Lucy serving as an ambassador for her species in our education program, she also acted as a surrogate mother for dozens of orphaned Screech Owls over the years.

We are so grateful for all that Lucy contributed to our Organization and to the fields of environmental education and wildlife rehabilitation.

We couldn't do it without you!

Volunteer Spotlight

Trudi Hanson

Trudi has been volunteering with ORC since 2019. She initially helped in animal care but has recently shifted to assisting the Education Team. Her favorite things about volunteering are seeing and hearing the birds. She is also just happy being around the birds.

"Trudi is incredibly dedicated and the first volunteer under our new program to focus on supporting the ambassador training program. She holds herself to the highest standards while doing everything from food prep to weeding and is also a careful observer of ambassador behavior, frequently offering helpful observations of training sessions. And she does everything with compassion and a sense of humor that make her a joy to work with." - Kimberly Lundy, Lead Trainer

Externs

2022 was the first year ORC implemented our veterinary externship program. This program is open to students currently enrolled in veterinary school and allows students to gain hands-on experience in wildlife medicine under the direct supervision of our veterinarian. The program runs primarily from early April through mid-August and was fully booked!

7 Veterinary Interns from3 Universities

Western University veterinary student Simon Ettenger monitors an American Crow under anesthesia while fellow Western vet student Jesse Maestas sutures a laceration.

FINANCIALS

Ojai Raptor Center ended the 2022 fiscal year with a 29% surplus.
